

Update on State Water Project workshop

Background

The California Water Commission is planning a public forum on the State Water Project (SWP) in December 2012. Panelists will include representatives from the California Water Commission and the State Water Project. The format will be an interactive, "town hall" discussion on topics including SWP Strategic Issues/Sustainability, Operations, Current and Planned Construction Projects, Financing and Investment, Energy Issues, and the Delta.

The workshop will help the Commission meet its responsibility for the annual review and inspection of the construction and operation of the SWP (Water Code § 165), and inform and engage the public on key issues facing the SWP. The intended audience is the members of the California Water Commission, representatives from State Water Contractors, local water agencies, and interested members of the public.
